NOVUM delivers DevOps toolkit NDO to enterprise customers – standard platform for agile projects and business processes on-premise and in the cloud

5 The Novum Group, a manufacturer of standard software that is strongly anchored in the insurance industry, will in future also supply its DevOps toolkit NDO to enterprise customers in other industries. According to Novum, the development and operating processes for the in-house software development, the project planning of customer projects and the Cloud Service V'ger Sky, which won the Digital Leader Award, are all based on the DevOps toolkit NDO.

10 This means that a tried and tested DevOps toolkit, established in the insurance industry and based on open source standards, is now available for download for use in the company's own data center and in the cloud.

Customers use standards and make themselves independent

15 "A modern, agile software project including fast and secure operating releases is only possible with a professional DevOps procedure. With the DevOps toolkit NDO, the enterprise user has a professional DevOps procedure at his disposal, which he can individualize according to his wishes," says Michael Kraus, CEO of the Novum Group.

20 Today, the toolkit is successfully used by well-known insurance companies and software houses and, according to Novum, will also be available as a pure cloud service for medium-sized companies in the future.
